Concentration

We promote the excitement of developing skills on an orchestral stringed instrument!

Students will have daily group music instruction, culminating with a Thursday afternoon concert (2:00 p.m.). The faculty includes experienced teachers from the community and music education majors from the university. Open to all students who have completed one year of instruction on a stringed instrument.

The mission of the University of South Carolina String Project is:

- Creating a partnership of providing teaching experience for University of South Carolina students while. . .
- Providing accessible string education for community children and adults.
- Supporting area school music programs.

USC String Project Summer Day Camp

July 11-14, 2011

9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.
851 Park Street
Columbia, SC 29208

We make learning music fun!!!

The USC String Project has a tradition of providing reasonably priced supplemental string instruction to children in the Midlands for 35 years. The summer camp is designed to be a refresher for both children enrolled in our program during the year and for students who have not yet been part of the program.

Our most experienced teachers and graduates work with the children each day, providing varied activities and sufficient rest breaks. The three groups perform a concert at 2:00 on the last day of the camp.

The camp is open to any student who has played for at least one year.
